
Special Note: Kitchen Information Dissemination Specialists

Posted by previewlounge - 2013/06/20 13:14

kitchen spammers of the world, it is time to reinhabit your power zone and escape the shackles of the Addiction To Posting Bizarre and Awkward Advertisements That Aren't Really Advertisements, but Merely Google Keyword Loading In Disguise.

The sooner you all evolve out of your strange contrast of anti-social posting behaviour mixed with highly visible levels of disrespect to the the EU forum, the better it will be for all of us, because really, we are all in this together ... evolution ... no more spam? please.

otherwise it means we here at the forum must reignite the Spam Blaster group admin gallop about the place firehosing off the rebellious kitchen graffiti (for want of a better adjective) ...

eventually we send mini-tantrum emails to HQ requesting more power for more admins ... waiting, wondering, to see what HQ's bemused and vaguely amused response is oh, and all the political ramifications thereof ... who gets the uber kick-ban powers? who does not? it becomes an international red tape situation waiting to happen, and who would actively choose that, when there are so many more enjoyable activities on offer? like for example, improvising awesome audio spectrum installation pieces.

=====

Re:Special Note: Kitchen Information Dissemination Specialists

Posted by m3lt594 - 2013/06/21 07:20

maybe you can join forces with other small forums getting spammed:
<http://www.scansol.co.uk/forum/viewtopic.php?f=1&t=1985>

also you may find this youtube video of someone calling in to complain quite entertaining
<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8z2sY6ivAZc>

=====