

---

Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Nein - 2013/06/22 03:50

---

Given that I live in the past really (not entirely but mostly) circa 93-98 and all Techno I have a question.

Who do you lovely forum members think is the most original, prolific, consistent and basically "Dope" producer of the last 10 years. By that I mean all of the last 10 years (not a producer who has just been on the scene for say the last 3 years). Looking for consistency here.

From a Techno point of view I cant think of anyone who has been thoroughly consistent and prolific for the whole of the last 10 years.

I dunno.

Some not Techno

Four Tet perhaps
James T Cotton maybe

Anyway I would be interested to read your thoughts.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by papertiger - 2013/06/22 03:58

---

Burial.

The first time I heard Burial's music I felt like I was hearing something really "new." Yes, his style is an amalgamation of styles, but it's like he internalized so much of music in the last 20 years and then created something that celebrated it in a completely fresh voice.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by GeneralBigBag - 2013/06/22 04:06

---

It's hard to pick one, but for me they'd be out of Actress, Shackleton, Flying Lotus, Vladislav Delay, and Jan Jelinek

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by MCL - 2013/06/22 04:11

---

Karl O'Connor would get my vote.

I know he is an old stalwart of the scene, but his output remains undiminished both on his own, but also in collaboration with others, Sandwell District, BMB, UST, OVR. He just keeps going and has always been a great influence.

i would chuck Tony Surgeon in the mix here as well. Keep making good stuff, delivering interesting and 'different' than the norm stuff since they first started. I too am from the old guard of Techno guys, but these two have never rested on their laurels, always been quality, and just kept delivering.

As for 'new' over the last 10 years....hmm, not so sure on that one.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by recyclinglostcities - 2013/06/22 04:19

---

---

I second Burial.

I'd also say Boxcutter/Barry Lynn. Even tho he made a bit of a stylistic shift between the 2nd and 3rd Boxcutter albums, his ability to blend styles and sounds in new ways while retaining his own signature sound is unparalleled.

<http://www.youtube.com/user/BarryLynnMusic>

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Nein - 2013/06/22 04:25

---

papertiger wrote:
Burial.

The first time I heard Burial's music I felt like I was hearing something really "new." Yes, his style is an amalgamation of styles, but it's like he internalized so much of music in the last 20 years and then created something that celebrated it in a completely fresh voice.

Burial is great but he has only been releasing since 2006 so has not been prolific and consistent for 10 years.

Regis, good call. Had him in my OP but took him off as other than Sandwell District was not too sure what he has been upto in the last 10 years.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Tarekith - 2013/06/22 05:38

---

Didn't Four Tet just admit to being Burial?

My vote would be Jon Hopkins or Tipper, both amazing producers.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by j0hnny - 2013/06/22 06:10

---

There's some funny articles on the site responsible for that rumour. Don't think it is serious.

Interesting thread anyway, I'm a bit behind the times myself.
:watch:

Really enjoyed tracks from Vladislav delay, extrawelt, minilogue & Mathew jonson past several years.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by papertiger - 2013/06/22 06:47

---

Nein wrote:
Burial is great but he has only been releasing since 2006 so has not been prolific and consistent for 10 years.

being prolific is overrated. :)

it is your survey, of course, but i stand by burial. he could fade away into obscurity today and the body of work he's left behind would still impress me more for what it is production wise than a lot of artists that release more music at a faster pace.

---

:beer:

(arguing about music is like...)

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Glitchedout - 2013/06/22 06:54

---

Four tet for sure and burial def have to agree .....but ARE They the same ?

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Laughing Animal - 2013/06/22 10:38

---

For me it's Bonobo. Love his work, and his live show with a band is incredible.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by sausmatoe - 2013/06/22 11:44

---

Actress, Burial, Zomby

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Daisuk - 2013/06/22 20:18

---

Actress.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by boboter - 2013/06/22 21:06

---

EI-P

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by xmit - 2013/06/22 22:01

---

Mark Pritchard ?

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by djd_oz - 2013/06/22 22:31

---

Psyk? Skudge? Steffi?

=====

---

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Vader77 - 2013/06/25 00:57

---

Vladislav Delay, Hecq, Mark Fell and Kanding Ray I've been most impressed with sound wise recently of the top of my head Mount Kimbe, Tipper, Tech Diff, Ambulance, Lineland, Eeros Johannis, COH, FourTet & Broken Note also come to mind

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by koshimazaki - 2013/06/25 01:19

---

To me Atom TM aka Uwe Schmidt for diversity of work and overall quality. Also Vladislav Delay and Siriusmo for techno productions.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by Barfunkel - 2013/06/25 02:43

---

Can't think of anyone really. The thing is, I'm really picky about the music I listen to. Even with my favorite producers I like maybe 20% of the music. Never heard of anyone who would be so consistent that almost everything he made was worth buying.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by orangehexagon - 2013/06/25 08:25

---

I second the Burial and Jon Hopkins nods.

I'd also throw in James Holden and Stimming.

=====

Re:Top Producer last 10 years

Posted by wascal - 2013/06/27 00:57

---

Tipper definitely

=====