a little hint on the sample pack, some of the files were edited short but can be looped. when you load the sample pack via C6, you can set these files to loop:

blip_01
synth_04
synth_05

I've fixed the sample pack. Sample "synth_05" was accidently saved as a 32bit file. I've corrected this error and now all 16 samples will load fine your UW. Enjoy!

How about editing? Is that allowed? For instance, let's say I go on a 24-minute excursion and decide that only 16 seconds were any good (which is very possible). Can I just snip out that 16 seconds?

Sorry Glitched but this isn't allowed...for now. Part of the Science Lab is that you upload your Sysex file w/ all your patterns & song mode.

I can understand your interest in working this way, as some of the best work I've done in the Elektron gear has been improvised. I just suggest copying and pasting those patterns as you're working so you can build on them later.

In the future we may open certain Labs up for improvised recording/edits.

One more question: is use of the RAM machines allowed?

Hi, I have uploaded my mdw submission: "exploding stars in slow motion". Lots of tweaking, including plotting of trigs, plocks, etc., but still only one pattern. Sysex is up there, too.

Check the description for more.

Must say i?m disapointed with this round, boring samples or something... thought it would be more exiting tracks..

But my taste really dont like remix-sounding music, vocalsamples and house is the worst stuff i know...

glithed made something that sounded like a song, liked it!!

The poll is closed! I want to congratulate Papertiger on winning with her "Fudge Circle" entry. I also want to thank everyone who submitted to this round of Science Labs.

I think this round of the Labs may have had the strongest entries we've seen to date, or at least in a long while. Congrats to you all...the next Labs will be posted next week.

yes! sorry for the delay stiiiiive. i promise i'll get'em setup before the end of the week. between setting up the new site, curating/designing/wrangling & stressing this Tribute to Daniel Compilation, and starting a new job...woof! hard to fit it all in.

Great !

I was not blaming you, hmm ? I was precisely wondering how you can manage aaaaaalllllllll these topics at the time plus updating the forum plus the Daniel's compilation plus Elektroning plus this plus that...

Well, thanks and congratulations for your new job !

you all are too kind! my thinking is, work hard now to get the site, compilation, etc finished, then don't have to think about for a long while...aside from maintenance.

plus, someday I'd like to have time to make music again :O

Wow I'm so sorry I cannot understand that pun... I've just searched for a translation of "fudge" and "cicle" but my poor english beats the Harrap's !

EDIT : Hmm maybe I got it actually ;)
