
New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/08/15 01:35

Hi All,

Just finished recording a new ambient piece - This is recorded and treated guitars and bass, transferred to the MD UW and played on the Machinedrum only.

Really something different and a big departure for me. Wanted to see if it works, and I think it does. I wonder how I could break out of the rather confined set of samples and really mangle these sounds in real time to become completely unlike the source material.

Anyway -- let me know what you think!

Here it is: <https://soundcloud.com/encym/schimmer>

Enjoy!

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by kirlian - 2013/08/15 10:09

so stark.. so different from your other sounds. i like it! elektron boxes are so musical if you know how to work them. you should make an album of this stuff. soundtrack music...

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/08/15 19:05

kirlian wrote:

so stark.. so different from your other sounds. i like it! elektron boxes are so musical if you know how to work them. you should make an album of this stuff. soundtrack music...

Thanks kirlian!

Working on making a set of pieces inspired by my favourite film music.

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by namnibor - 2013/08/15 19:53

Very nice!

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by dubathonic - 2013/08/15 23:06

^Agree, lovely piece. Been meaning to try this approach for awhile and this is great motivation. :)

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/08/19 22:41

dubathonic wrote:

^Agree, lovely piece. Been meaning to try this approach for awhile and this is great motivation. :)

Thanks!

Do it - it's a very uplifting experience.

Particularly if you take your pre-composed "piece" apart by tweaking parameters, possibly with the locks - but that's not even necessary.

The piece was recorded with no patterns stored at all, just playing like a piano.

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by Chris Allen - 2013/08/22 02:51

Very cool!would love to do a weird triphop remix of this hehe!

-Chris

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/08/22 04:10

Chris Allen wrote:

Very cool!would love to do a weird triphop remix of this hehe!

-Chris

Sure, anytime.

Have done a beat version actually. Maybe I should upload that too.

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by DaCaVa - 2013/08/22 21:31

I have to be honest, I didn't know what to expect. A machinedrum only ambient track!? Really... how would this work, shy of making atonal, #ucking frightening landscapes... but alas, this was awesome, and very musical. Quite cool.

Cheers,

Mike

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by DaCaVa - 2013/08/22 21:33

Double Post!? WTF!!

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/08/22 23:58

DaCaVa wrote:

I have to be honest, I didn't know what to expect. A machinedrum only ambient track!? Really... how would this work, shy of making atonal, #ucking frightening landscapes... but alas, this was awesome, and very musical. Quite cool.

Cheers,

Mike

Cheers Mike!

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/09/02 17:43

Thanks everyone for comments & opinions.

Instead of opening it again to work some more on it I did an entirely new piece if you'd like to hear it - ambient but MD perc:

<https://soundcloud.com/encym/dormant>

Enjoy!

=====

Re:New Machinedrum-only ambient piece

Posted by encym - 2013/09/19 17:00

kirlian wrote:

so stark.. so different from your other sounds. i like it! elektron boxes are so musical if you know how to work them. you should make an album of this stuff. soundtrack music...

FYI, there's another piece up that might interest you:

<https://soundcloud.com/encym/infinite-skies>

=====