It's the Elektron way: you only need one tempo for all your tracks and projects. If it bothers you, you're doing it wrong. Adapt to the Elektron workflow of only using one tempo throughout a whole live-set. Just try it out, it really changes you way to think about your music and on how to keep the flow for the dancing crowd.

well, an important aspect of the Elektron way is that you can always buy a Machinedrum and use its song mode for detailed tempo changes. :laugh:
