enjoy!

I will post the actual set when I get it!

nice relaxing tracks, Milk! nice washes and the beats aren't intrusive. i'm guessing the acid niceness is from the x0xb0x? i really dig 'Road Agent'. what'd you use for gear? mpc, md, mm, x0xb0x? very nice.

you got it! thanks!

most of the poly synth is sampled from my virus, and there is a little juno 106 sampled in there too - but other than that, its just those machines. The XBase is really a pleasure to work with live, as is the x0xb0x. I am still a little too afraid of the machinedrum monomachine combo at a gig - the simplicity of the Xbase can not be beat, however, as you say the beats are a bit too unobtrusive. The MD hits harder, however, having just kick hats and snare is nice - and I added some aux percussion with the monomachine bbox.

Funny story: I noticed something rattling around in the x0xb0x when I got to the gig, and I was like "uh oh". The thing powered up and worked fine through the set, and I was relieved. Then when I got home I took the cover off to check what was rattling - there was a roll of electrical tape in there! I have no idea how that got in there, and how I did not notice it for 5 weeks while I was writing the music - but it scared the crap out of me!!!

lol, kind of like a doctor dropping a set of forceps or his Rolex into a patient's chest cavity during a triple-bypass? :-D that's pretty funny.

oh, which was it? the Xbase, MD or both?

no MD :(

shes been sitting in the studio waiting for her moment. I just got hired to do another fashion show in october though - the MD is all over it.
