
live set, rebroadcast from Sunday radio appearance

Posted by endmusik - 2005/11/09 07:22

I did a radio broadcast with the guys from NYConduit - <http://www.nyconduit.com> - this past sunday. Here's a recording of my set - pretty much 80% of the material was done with the monomachine :D

http://endmusik.com/Audio/endmusik_live_radi8r.mp3 should be live on the site in a few minutes - just had to rename the damned file....

enjoy! it's about 25 minutes worth of stuff.

/michael

=====

Re: live set, rebroadcast from Sunday radio appearance

Posted by glaive - 2005/11/09 14:43

Cool set, Michael. Thanks for posting it!

=====

Re: live set, rebroadcast from Sunday radio appearance

Posted by ggoodwin - 2005/11/09 20:00

sounds pretty cool...I like the retrig-heavy section around 15:00-18:00.

=====

Re: live set, rebroadcast from Sunday radio appearance

Posted by dirge - 2005/11/12 10:12

sounds great! what did you use for the other 20%, if you don't mind disclosing?

=====

Re: live set, rebroadcast from Sunday radio appearance

Posted by endmusik - 2005/11/12 18:43

I recorded a bunch of pads/etc from a Crumar Orchestrator, as well as some "guitar" leads (early on in the set) from a Nord G2. There's also some electric piano from Emagic's EVP73. All the drums are a cross between Machinedrum samples and some breakbeats, and a heavy dose of Buffer Override and Supatrigga on one of my busses - all the live mixing was done in Ableton Live.

Normally I bring the Monomachine and use Live as a drum and pad sampler, but I decided to do this set just with the laptop and an evolution uc-16 controller. Not so bad, but I'm thinking of moving over to a MNM+MPC1000 setup in the next month or so - I'm sick of the computer these days :D

Thanks for listening everyone!

/michael

=====