

---

Stockhausen

Posted by jsrockit - 2005/11/13 22:48

---

I want to listen to some Stockhausen... but have no idea where to start. I listen to some in the Library when I was in college...about 10 years ago...but would like to hear some again. What is considered an essential listen and what is a good piece to start with...that is readily available?

=====

Re: Stockhausen

Posted by BartBral - 2005/11/14 19:11

---

i know your problem, a few years ago somebody played me a stockhausen piece and was real excited about it. When i listen to a lot of other material i wasn't that excited... but a lot of his stuff are recording/synthesis experiments more then musical pieces imo...

i found this link in a magazine:

http://www.stockhausen.org/stockhausen\_multimedia.html

i have only check if it worked, but haven't downloaded or heard any of the pieces yet...

am already listening to to first xperimnt.... yes some good sh*t :lol: and some stuff i just don't understand.

i see that there a some interviews there too... so that'll keep yah busy for some time...

be sure you check this as well:

<http://www.stockhausen.org/ksadvice.html>

That's an interview with KarlHeinz regarding dancemusic (Karlheinz Stockhausen Advice to clever children...1995) the intro of the story will tell you the rest.

-Bart dB-)

=====

Re: Stockhausen

Posted by jsrockit - 2005/11/14 23:02

---

Cool...thanks.

=====