EU Album: Collaboration thread

Posted by tIB - 2009/12/16 10:17

Hello!

Use this thread as an opportunity to seek out collaborative partners, trios or whatever... as mentioned in the concept thread we are encouraging collaboration for this project and the selection committee will take collaboration into account when working on the final track selection.

It might be an idea to express your interest in collaborating here if you are looking for a collaborator along with the style(s) you prefer to work in.

Alternatively feel free to make your own links with forum members... start shooting out some PM's.

Would love to do some ambient-style with a little glitch if anyone is interested - ala Cepia, Loscil, Lusine ICL, etc. Thinking a Feb time-frame for the writing. Let me know...

Hi everyone, it's great witnessing the enthusiasm for the the chosen concept around here! B)

Here's a little list of things to think about (or not) when presenting yourself as a collaboration partner:

what would you consider your musical/compositional/programming strengths?

what would you consider your musical/compositional/programming weaknesses?

What, if any, is your preferred style of music?

Are there any practical implications that might be useful for potential collaborators to know about (preferred working methods, DAW/platform, MD/MNM/other, time restrictions etc)

Vangelis seeks AphexTwin

Smooth synth geek wltm drum percussive oriented glitch guru for some mnm/md fun.

Give me patterns to plug into my MD and I'll make us some sweet muzak.

Preferred working method would be to send the a MD file and I can send you an MnM file to play with. We can both do mixes and edit them together.

Influences:

BOC, Bibio, autechre, The Field, electropop.

More chilled than thrilled.

I'm up for a collaboration.

I'm looking for someone with better arranging skills than me, and who knows how to turn good ideas into a nice track.

I'm a decent pattern and sound programmer, and my stuff tends to be fairly rhythmic, with a nice drive. I suck at arranging, and subtlety is not one of my virtues. :drums:

I'm not into any particular style, but was thinking something deep or dubby would be cool, and a nice challenge for the Elektrons. I'm open to anything though, as long as it's not very genre-specific and a little oddball.

No particular requirements... I'm a family man and very busy at times, so patience is a good thing :) I probably won't have much studio time until mid January.

So I would love to be part of this in one way or another.....Let be known I am new to the world of "makin" electronic music, but have been makin and playing "live" music for years. I have played everything and everywhere from the "FIB festival" in Spain to your local bar&grill of the Appalachia. PLEASE PUT ME TO WORK or point me in a good direction. Pm me for styles and all that jazz :)

Count on me.

I'm dj and not a musician so my composition methods are chaotic, when I have an idea I try to compose it using "ears" and looking for a feeling with the patterns.

I own both MnM and MD so i'm up to any collaboration. I have and I know how to use live, but I prefer to work on hardware better than on software.

My preferences are raw electro sounds mixed with Idm style rythms, but i'm open to do something interesting between 90 and 115 bpm musical/compositional/programming strengths:

Sound design. EQ. melody lines. percussion lines.

musical/compositional/programming weaknesses:

---

transitions. build-ups, break downs. when to bring sounds in and out.

preferred style of music:

techno/electro/house. e.g. deadmau5/richie hawtin/steve bug/jeff mills et al.

practical implications that might be useful for potential collaborators to know about (preferred working methods, DAW/platform, MD/MNM/other, time restrictions etc)

I run Ableton Live 5.2 with minimal plugins (operator but no other bought plugs) both MnM and MD, both MKII and the MD is UW.

No time restrictions. I would like to keep this STRICTLY an elektron affair except for efx and mixing if necessary.

peace

As I mentioned in the concept thread, I'd be up for collabaration.

I'm thinking it would be cool to have a vocal track using the VO6 machine, my VO6 chops are, I think up to the challenge to do a "proper" song, its something that I have been meaning to do for a while, but I never got around to it, so now seems a good a time as any.

I reckon 1 track for the VO6 and another for reverb, leaving 4 for other synth tracks, drums taken care of by the MD. Possibly need a whole bank of 16 patterns to get enough vocals.

Genre wise, I am normally in the detroit/acid/electro area, but I can also work within different styles, so I am pretty open to almost any style.

It'd be best for me to collab with someone who has both Mono and MD, and I'd prefer to work with someone who is more musical than minimal.

I wouldn't be looking to use any other gear, just the Elektrons. I don't use a computer DAW (more likely to be a door stop round here LOL) But I am not averse to my partner using one for tweaking etc.

Time frame - to start whenever.

So if thats you hit me up;)

I'm more of a remixer than a collaborator. I'll definitely do a track of my own, but if you want to be remixed, hit me up! (By the way, if you don't like the remix, I won't release it; it's a win-win situation!)

Anyone up for an off kilter electronica collab with a mathematical concept? I am mdUWmk1 only so anyone with one of them or a mono/sid to add to the mix then give me a shout.

I would like to concentrate on beat making, mixing and arrangement so anyone with a melody head give me a shout. Although collaboration is welcome on all areas, fractals, evolution etc etc.

Elektron only track although if more than an MD is to be used then A sequencer would be drafted in.

I always thought it would be a fun challenge to have a Mono duet - i.e., Male VO6 sings to female VO6 and vice versa.B) Never got around to it either... Working title is "Push My Button" - lol.

SureB) I've got some basic lyric ideas for a chorus too, simple stuff-nothing Shakespearean. Also, I'm a good match for your description as I like electro and house with melody + classic song structure. I usually prefer vocal tracks, 120-140 bpm. I can't do the 10 minutes of filter tweak stuff-it's cool but I can't write it. Have MnM & MD too.B)

I'm in for something, anything...

My idea is pushing the machines towards an acoustic direction, getting lost of the crisp digital sound making it as human as possible.

have mnml , mnml, mdl and sid genre: techno, house, hiphopish, idm, bocish

@liveseq: what is your mathematical concept, don't really understand what you're thinkin of.
