When you subscribe to a given post, you can see how many times it has been viewed.

Would someone please disable the ability of a member to increment that counter when they themselves are viewing a given post multiple times? This really shouldn't count as a view.

Ultimately this bug doesn't allow for a clear indication of how many times a given post has actually been viewed by others (which is the intention after all).

Thanks,

Yep, and it is worst then you think:ohmy: some people put on dark glasses, others glue on a mustache , just to confuse the counter

I think a quick DNA swipe on entry would get rid of those rascals very funny. :kiss:

but in all seriousness, it _would_ help somewhat if we could sort by number of views to check out the more interesting threads that have been happening in recent dates.
