Tough choice! I like the sober look of the gray panels; purposeful and restrained. The white is nice though! Looks Oberheim'ish like you say.

So when are you ordering Anselmi? :woohoo:

yeah, looking again at the grey one made me think about it again...

So when are you ordering Anselmi? :woohoo:

I got the money and without the color decision I'm more than ready to get it...but you know..I'm in Uruguay so I have to wait to somebody bring it to me from the states because importation taxes here are HUGE (100-150% OVER the original price)...so I have to wait until my wife's travel to USA in september...and pray for everything go OK...

Well I'm still honeymooning with the Voyager, but I prefer the original face myself.

shit!, you are right tib!

I mean, I think I got a somewhat fatty skin and my fingerprints are all over my gear's faceplates

Since I still like the original one maybe it's better to keep with it...:unsure:

I like the original too... if I was buying it for here (ie hot and sweaty) I'd go green, for at home maybe I'd give it some more thought.

Dont forget to budget in the cost of baby wipes for the white one :lol:

Ouch! And I complain about 25% taxes.. What's the reason for the huge taxes?

If you go for the gray face, you might save some money buying a used one. Not that they show up very often.. Or do you have the same tax dilemma with used gear?
